Proposed Treasury regulations have been issued that will recapture on death the use of the temporary gift, estate, and potential GST exclusion. If enacted as proposed, it is possible that several common estate planning transactions that appeared to have safeguarded exclusion will not have done so. This could result in increased estate tax even if the taxpayer anticipated that the planning would have safeguarded the high exclusion used. This could impact gifts of an enforceable promise to pay, QTIP disclaimers, certain Internal Revenue Code section 2701 transactions, certain sale transactions involving the receipt of a note, and other gifts. You should review all planning with your legal counsel to determine if any further actions might be taken to mitigate this possible result.

Consistent with its obligation to obtain "best execution," Pitcairn, in exercising its investment discretion over advisory or fiduciary assets in client accounts, may allocate orders for the purchase, sale, or exchange of securities for the account to such brokers and dealers for execution on such markets, at such prices, and at such commission rates as, in the good faith judgment of Pitcairn, will be in the best interest of the account, taking into consideration in the selection of such broker and dealer, not only the available prices and rates of brokerage commissions, but also other relevant factors (such as, without limitation, execution capabilities, products, research or services provided by such brokers or dealers which are expected to provide lawful and appropriate assistance to Pitcairn in the performance of its investment decision making responsibilities).
